Miss Nomonde Scott
Provincial Coordinator: Western Cape

PROFILE

Miss Nomonde Scott is the Safer South Africa Foundation's Provincial Coordinator for Western Cape and is a former prosecutor in the province.

She attained her B. PROC degree from Walter Sisulu University (UNITRA) and was employed as a prosecutor. She became the first African woman public prosecutor in the Western Cape.

As much as she made history for all the right reasons, she also made history in the wrong reasons, by being the first prosecutor in South African history, to be behind bars. While sending people to prison, little did she know that she would follow them. Subsequently and after incarceration, she could not be employed and therefore; she sought advice from former President Nelson Mandela who explicitly advised her to go back to school.

She then registered for her LLB degree and graduated in 2008, while paroled. She later registered for her LLM degree in environmental law and her thesis was on a climate change.

She has published a book titled "Look Before You Leap," an autobiography. The book is an eye opener, intended to ensure that communities and those in leadership positions refrain from any frivolous pursuits including, crime and corruption.

A versatile motivational speaker, she tackles issues relating to moral regeneration, and issues against moral degeneration e.g. crime and corruption. She has spoken on various platforms; addressing state departments, private companies, schools, churches and many other organisations.
